LASALLE UNIVERSITY

In designing this year's Explorer, we have endeavored to fulfill the many purposes of a yearbook. The yearbook gives us the opportunity to recognize the contributions of thousands of people to the vitality of La Salle University. We recognize the hard work of the administrators who keep the University running and guide its growth. We recognize the dedication of the faculty to increasing their expertise and sharing it with their students. We recognize the participation of students in extra-and co-curricular activities above and beyond the call of duty of regular classwork. We recognize the achievements of all our athletes, who strive to improve their personal best. We recognize the graduation of our seniors, whose accomplishments will now be taken to the world beyond 20th & Olney. Finally, we recognize the efforts of the Christian Brothers to preserve the values espoused by St. Jean Baptiste de La Salle.

We present this yearbook also as a keepsake. Memories of La Salle may grow dim with time; the name of a teacher, the title of a book, the number of our first dorm room may eventually prove elusive. The yearbook consists mainly of images and symbols of life at La Salle University. Pictures of students walking to class, of the library and lecture halls, of the quad and Belfield Farm, do not tell the whole story. Experiences of La Salle are as unique as each person passing through this campus. Hopefully, in the years to come, the 1991 Explorer will remind its owners of the intangible benefits of their years at La Salle, which cannot be recognized in a yearbook. As you look through these pages, you will see a reflection of La Salle. We hope that you will also see something of yourself.

DEDICATION

Four and a half decades of service, a dedication to teaching, or a genuine interest in his students as individuals? It's difficult to say exactly which of these makes Dr. Robert Courtney of the Political Science Department such a remarkable man. Since joining the La Salle faculty in June 1946, Dr. Courtney has witnessed the changes that have transformed La Salle from the small, all-male institution which occupied only the third floor of College Hall to the co-educational, cosmopolitan university we know today. Throughout the metamorphosis, however, one thing has remained constant: Dr. Courtney's love of teaching and his personal interest in his students.

"I've always wanted to," Dr. Courtney states when asked why he teaches. "I thought that I'd be good at it and I'd be happy doing it." The professor's own education began at West Catholic High School For Boys and continued at La Salle College, where he earned a degree in Social Studies and English. He received a fellowship to Niagara University in 1941; however, the onset of World War II and the events at Pearl Harbor interrupted his studies, and he temporarily put his education on hold in order to join the Navy.

As an officer on the U.S.S. Augusta for four years, Dr. Courtney observed first hand, developments of world-wide importance, such as President Truman's announcement in August of 1945 of a new bomb which could mean the end of the war. "No one really knew what an atomic bomb was," Dr. Courtney admits. "We didn't understand its consequences at that time."

After the war, the student returned to his studies and completed his master's dissertation at Niagara in June, 1946. He began teaching at La Salle that same year, but he simultaneously continued his education and in 1957 received his PhD. in Political Science from the University of Pennsylvania.

With over forty years of La Salle experience, Dr. Courtney has observed and been a part of the changes which have shaped the La Salle of the 90's. How many of us can remember the all-purpose Leonard Hall, which housed cafeteria, bookstore, and barber shop? And how many of us were around for the first admittance of women in 1970 — a change which, the professor states, added "A good academic dimension" to the La Salle education. More recently, over the past twenty years, he has seen the geographic expansion of the campus, due to the addition of the residence halls, which has enabled the University's population to stretch beyond the Philadelphia area.

Dr. Courtney also commends La Salle on the adaption of a broader liberal education. Education today, he feels, is entirely too specialized and too oriented towards careers. However, he adds that, in spite of the career-focused society of today, La Salle is more sensitive to the spirit of a broad, liberal arts education than in the past.

Ever interested in improving himself as an educator, Dr. Courtney explains how he would always observe his own professors and build upon those experiences by incorporating the good points and eliminating the bad. Sensitive to students as individuals, he tries always to remain open to each one's personal needs and feelings.

As remarkable as his professional record may sound, Dr. Robert Courtney's forty-five years as a La Salle professor and twenty-five years as Chairman of the Political Science Department fall short in illustrating his true value as a teacher and a member of the La Salle family. One must look beyond the classroom and also see him sketching, painting, and playing the violin for his twelve grandchildren. One must see him, after putting his textbooks aside, leaning back with John Le Carre and Agatha Christie. One must remember his twenty years as golf coach at La Salle and also overhear his enthusiasm and genuine interest in a student's discourse on swimming techniques. Finally, one must talk with him for fifty minutes and realize that there will never be enough time to hear all the thousands of wonderful stories he has to tell.

"As long as I'm able to do my job for the students, I'll be here teaching!" Dr. Courtney promises. It's a comfort to know that, while La Salle is constantly improving itself through change and upheaval, the type of dedication which Dr. Courtney brought with him in 1946 still lives on. That, we hope, will never change.

La Salle University recently acquired the property of the former St. Basil's Orphanage. Over the summer, the buildings were transformed into St. John Neumann Residence Hall. Neumann Hall is La Salle's latest attempt to provide housing for all resident students. The facilities at Neumann Hall include newly designed dorm rooms, a mailroom, and a physical fitness center.

This summer also saw the renovation of the Commuter Cafeteria. The new Food Court presents a unique and colorful version of the food service system.

The passing moment is all we can be sure of; it is only common sense to extract its utmost value from it; the future will one day be the present and will seem as unimportant as the present does now.

Twenty Years of Coeducation

It is a fair assumption that most students take La Salle University's identity as a coeducational institution for granted. Twenty years ago, however, the introduction of women students to our campus was a big event. For more than 100 years, La Salle College had been an all male institution, and significant bravery and foresight were required of administrators, faculty, and students alike to make this change work. On this, the twentieth anniversary of coeducation at La Salle, it is important to remember and celebrate those who made the transition possible and ultimately enriched the community we all share in today.

Brother Daniel Burke was president of the college at the time coeducation was introduced. The reasons for the decision to admit women were pragmatic ones; in his own words, "Everyone was doing it." The demographic forecast for the 1970's predicted a 20-25% decline in the population of high school graduates. It was a necessity to expand the applicant pool for self preservation. Admitting women was the most logical means of doing this. In addition, Bro. Daniel and the administration truly believed that the educational experience at La Salle would be improved by the presence of women, providing a diversity that was already present in many areas of the working world.

Although they received phenomenal support from many administrators and faculty, the real heroes of this story are those first women students whose strength and intelligence forged a positive identity for all La Salle women. Marianne Salmon Gauss, presently an instructor in the Management Department, entered La Salle as a student in the Fall of 1970. Choosing La Salle for its reputation, convenience, and affordability, she didn't realize that being a minority would present a problem. "Actually, it was more of a challenge than I probably acknowledged at the time." Understandably, upperclass students resisted the change and were sometimes insensitive. One particular group of men would station themselves on the Union balcony and rate the women with cards as they walked by. The cafeteria was so intimidating to the women that they ate their lunches in the bathroom lounge. But rather than be discouraged, these women forged a type of "boot camp bonding," according to Gauss, and actively sought the most from their educations. Encounters with sexism were isolated, and generally handled with humor and class.

John Grady, current Director of the Honors Program, also remembers that first class of women students for their strength and spirit. By coincidence, the advent of coeducation happened in close proximity to Vietnam War protests and controversy over individual rights, making La Salle "a very busy place." In this tumultuous time, women students really made their mark, instantly becoming immersed in educational, extracurricular, and service pursuits. Grady spoke fondly of such women as Chris Long, an ardent and outspoken feminist; Janet Papiano, who battled discrimination on the road to becoming a successful physician; and Ada Steinmetz, who applied for a Rhodes Scholarship before women applicants were accepted.

Women faculty started appearing a few years before the transition to coeducation in the Day Division. These women provided much needed role models for those first women students. Dr. Barbara Millard was one such professor and role model, and continues in these roles today. Her experiences as a female graduate student, and as one of the few women faculty members at La Salle spurred a period of consciousness raising within herself and a desire to contribute to the establishment of a respected community of women on campus. Millard has consistently worked hard to foster productive change in the La Salle community, a community which has become her second family. Although there have been periods of struggle and hostility, her values have always remained the La Sallian values centered on providing a quality Christian education for all students. As the first female president of the faculty senate, Millard was able to voice many of her concerns and foster positive change. As an educator and counselor, she enriches the lives of her students every day in small but praiseworthy ways. Hopefully, Dr. Millard and others like her will be on hand to lead La Salle through the challenges of the next twenty years.

Brother Craig Franz is a prime example of the accessibility and dedication that the Christian Brothers are known for throughout the La Salle community. He shares the belief that "the heart of teaching is the relationship between students and teachers."

Bro. Craig received his bachelor's degree in biology from Bucknell University, a master's degree in environmental science from Drexel University, and a doctorate in marine ecology from the University of Rhode Island.

In the Biology department, Bro. Craig teaches Ecology, Biometrics, Marine Biology, and Invertebrate Zoology. Whether it is through his warm smile and friendly teaching in the classroom, or his open and inviting door, Bro. Craig's assistance, encouragement and advice is always available.

English

All hope abandon, ye who enter here. College. In the long past, perhaps best forgotten, days of high school the world was no more than an abstraction, its reality so distant as to stir merely an uneasy fear of the unknown. And yet the day arrived in which this abstraction became intimidatingly tangible, and we found ourselves sitting in the first class of our collegiate career. Looking around the room — not too obviously — to scrutinize the people that you will be spending the next four years with, you tried to remain confident as nagging questions played on your doubts. Who are all of these people? Will I make any friends here? Will I date? Do I belong here?

Welcome now, my friends, to the show that never ends. We're so glad you could attend; come inside, come inside. No matter what your first class at La Salle was, it probably left an impression on you. In this case it is 9:30 a.m. in frosty Olney Hall, and the class is The Literature Experience 150, a class almost everyone must take at some point in order to graduate. After the small eternity in which you attempt to look and feel just as cool as you're sure everyone else in the class is, the Man with the Tie enters the classroom, and nervous chatter gives way to quiet anticipation.

Dr. John Seydow, a tall man with thick grey hair walks into the room and wastes no time informing the class that this is the most, if not the only, important course on the roster. Dr. Seydow leads the class through such works as Sir Gawain and the Green Knight, Beowulf, Othello, and For Whom the Bell Tolls, is a manner that is interesting and — would you believe it — entertaining! It is emphasized that the chief benefit lies not not so much in reading classics in literature, as in learning to read in an analytical way. Of course, while one is left enriched with new means of analyzing literature, this new-found knowledge often has the dangerous side effect of causing one to take more English courses.

What a piece of work is man, how noble in reason, how infinite in faculties. More English courses mean much more reading to do and more papers to write; more, you might think, than you could possibly stand. However, there is more to it than that. It is Dr. Stephen Smith giving life to contemporary poetry in animated explication and Dr. Marjorie Allen, who teaches the grammars of English in a way which doesn't seem too much like torture. It is Dr. Barbara Millard (and formerly Claude Koch) leading a congregation in solemn worship of the "greatest writer of the English language," Shakespeare. And it is Dr. James Butler, the chairman of the department, building monuments to the poets of the Romantic period, Wordsworth, Keats, Shelley, and Byron. There are many others in the department who are deserving of mention, but time and space does not permit. Suffice it to say that those who teach English here at La Salle, from the University's president, Brother Patrick Ellis, on down, do so with an enthusiasm that can only come from a love of one's work.

Ask Dr. George Diehl how he became involved with music and he'll probably get a perplexed look on his face like he were searching for a profound reply. In the next moment he'll grin as though he were amused at some sort of inside joke, and probably laughingly reply, "Well, quite literally by accident."

"One day when I was about eleven years old, I was roller skating down a street near my father's bakery when I saw a big truck coming at me. So I quickly got on the sidewalk which happened to be filled with large cracks. The wheels of one of my skates got caught in one of these and I fell over. When I did, I fell with my full weight — and boy I was a fat kid! — on top of my right arm.

"Originally when I broke my arm, the doctor didn't set it correctly so my hand and arm deteriorated to the point of atrophy. Eventually, my mother found a remarkable doctor who set the arm properly with surgery. Once I was discharged, the doctor recommended that I do exercise on my own to strengthen my arm and hand, so out of the blue he happened to suggest that I take piano lessons."

Despite the late start, Diehl's progress soon began jumping to significant levels. And as he became increasingly absorbed in music, he realized that he would probably pursue a career in the field.

Diehl entered the University of Pennsylvania after graduating from Old Northeast high School in 1942 at the age of 18. Taking summer courses, he completed his bachelor's degree in three years. He received his master's degree at Penn in 1947 and eventually received his doctorate there in 1974.

James Hanes

Diehl's thirty-three year affiliation with radio station WFLN began in 1957 with his duties as a clerk-typist. He soon began writing and producing his own programs for broadcast which continues to this day. Diehl soon became affiliated with The Philadelphia Orchestra and today he still functions as the program annotator for the orchestra's summer concerts and also the subscription concerts of the Concerto Soloists of Philadelphia.

In the Spring of 1964, Diehl delivered his daughter to Widner Memorial School for a school luncheon. While waiting for the luncheon to finish, he meandered down Olney Avenue and into the Academic Vice President's office of then La Salle College to see if there were any job openings. Twenty- six years later Diehl has become a fixture at La Salle University.

In summing up his successful career, Diehl states that luck and circumstance played an important role, but something much more significant was required. "You have to show your wares. Luck is great and it often works in your best interest, but once the opportunity arises, you've gotta produce."

Every expert debater becmes a prodigious file-keeper. When you visit the Brother Edward Sheehy archives in Olney 366, you can tour the Sheehy Files and examine Gavel Society debate evidence dating back to nineteen-sixty-something. Brother Edward made La Salle history in 1968 when, as a member of the Gavel, he debated Oxford University's Royal Debating Society, and now he's making La Salle history again — as one of the most recent additions to the History Department faculty.

Brother Sheehy graduated from La Salle College in 1968 and went on to earn his Master's Degree from Johns Hopkins University and his Doctorate in American History from George Washington University. In between, he taught at high schools in Baltimore, New Jersey and Pittsburgh, where he was principal of Central Catholic for five years. Before his "homecoming" to La Salle in 1988, Sheehy kept in contact with the University as a member of the Board of Trustees.

Now he's back, and he admits that many aspects of La Salle have changed for the better, but one thing he's glad to see intact is the interactive student/faculty relationship he appreciated as a student. Many will quickly agree that Sheehy himself is responsible for some of the amity between faculty members and students on the La Salle campus. His attitude toward students may explain why he is so often the subject of praise. "I like to attend school events — intramurals, other activities — that kind of faculty support is important to me, and hopefully to the students."

His three years on La Salle's faculty have given Brother Edward many opportunities to touch student's lives, but even as an undergraduate, he left a legacy to the History Department that is still alive today. Sheehy was in the first class of members in La Salle's Nu Psi chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, the national History Honor Society. Today, he conducts honor society installations and also moderates the Historical Society.

Sheehy's philosophy of teaching involves showing students that History is more than what's in his extensive index card file. It can be alive and vibrant. Indeed, he admits that he never thought twice about majoring in History, although he never dreamed as an undergraduate that he would someday teach at his Alma Mater. But his students know that La Salle, history, and Brother Edward simply belong together. It isn't even debatable.

Brother John Dondero has been a member of the La Salle community since 1959. He received a bachelor's degree in physics from La Salle College, a master's degree in mathematics from the University of Pittsburgh, and both a master's and doctorate degree in psychology from Catholic University.

In his thirty-one years here at La Salle, Brother Dondero has accomplished many things. At one time, he was the moderator of the Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity. Presently, Brother Dondero is the president of the Faculty Senate, and maintains his own practice. Bro. Dondero has also been working on a survey instrument for the Christian Brothers as an effort to find out what the Brothers think about the present and the future.

When asked what he likes about working at La Salle, Brother Dondero said, "La Salle is a good place to work because of the way the faculty and students display a sense of community." He also likes the freedom La Salle offers him to pursue new courses. He teaches Statistics, Communications and courses in graduate Theology, Pastoral Counseling and Human Services.

One of the more unusual answers given by Brother Dondero was his response to the question "What do you think you offer your students?" With a smile, he replied: "my life." In explanation, he spoke of bringing to bear on all his interactions with students the objectivity he acquired through his training as a scientist and the sensitivity resulting from training as a therapist. Beyond that — his life — he has nothing to offer. Brother Dondero also feels the psychology department offers La Salle students a lot. He feels it is a very excellent undergraduate program and it has a fine reputation. Many psychology majors go on to earn their doctorate in this field. But, like all other course and fields it depends on the seriousness of the students that determines their success.

The Honors Board consists of five elected members from each class of the Honors Program. The board provides a means of communication between students in the program and teachers and the director of Honors, Mr. John Grady. Freshmen are elected at the end of the fall semester. The various committees that comprise the Honors Board have had a productive year with revising a new curriculum, initiating a new monthly newsletter, instituting a new format for freshmen elections and organizing an off-campus dinner dance. The Board also sponsors student-faculty on-campus socials, brown bag lunches, picnics — including one with the children from Building Blocks, La Salle's day care center — and a clothing drive at Christmas for St. Francis' Inn.

These pictures show students and faculty interacting in an informal setting at the Hallowe'en social, complete with the friendly ghost of the Honors center (below).

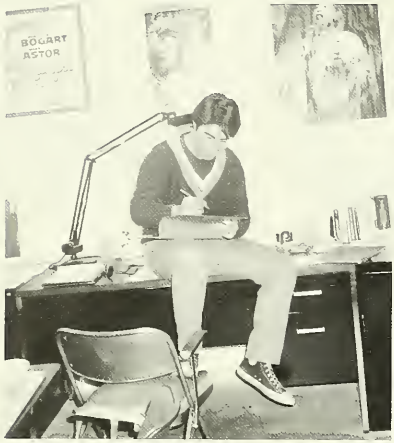
COLLEGIAN



Informing La Salle

60

The Collegian's relocation several floors south in the Union Building didn't slow the editorial process a bit . . . well, maybe a bit. With a late start, the editors shifted quickly into overdrive — the only gear they seem to know, especially on Tuesday nights.

Editor-in-Chief Bob Farrace returned to the office for a renewed performance of last year's newswriting, crusading, and late night wakening. Managing Editor Jean Michelle Williams graduated from the news desk to the business desk, where she employed her organizational magic under a strange juxtaposition of Duke Ellington and Sinead O'Connor posters.

The editors didn't really mind the sleepless night. Just imagine all they learn from 4a.m. radio talk shows! Besides, as they discovered long ago, it's the only way to crank out a quality newspaper week after week. "And we know people read it," Jean Michelle said. "We have the informal phone calls and nasty letters to prove it."

When not pursuing hot leads, attacking administrators, or shaking the La Salle community out of its complacency (full-time tasks in themselves), the editors usually spend their time taking flack for pursuing hot leads, attacking . . .

Crises? They're easy to easy to deal with. "We have a foolproof standard," Bob said. He just gazes at the icons above his desk and asks, "How would Bogart handle this?"

Don't worry, Entertainment Editor Duane, you have three hours 'til sunup.

Sports Editor Dave Brown thinks up new ways to give the Ice Hockey team more coverage in the Collegian.

The La Salle Collegian is a newspaper run by the students of La Salle University in Philadelphia, serving the entire University community. Letters will be printed provided they meet with the Editor's standards and can be allotted space. All letters must be signed, including the address and telephone number of the sender, and must be under 300 words. The Collegian reserves the right to revise letters as needed. Editorials reflect a consensus of the Editorial Board and are not necessarily the views of the University. Signed columns are the opinions of the writers.

Explorer

Editor-in-Chief

John McGoldrick

John McGoldrick, Supreme Dictator and overall "cool dude" can be counted on for a "How's it goin' guys" just when things are most stressful. He has been known to share his insights with the staff on everything from Faulkner to Lithium to Copy-fitting. His praise and trust in his staff members is always welcome but not always justified. (John, if you could only see us now!)

Faculty

Paigeann Fugaro

Paigeann Fugaro glares at the photographer, "Have you missed ANOTHER photo assignment?" Paigeann came through as faculty editor, although it meant juggling her many other campus obligations.

Business

Leah Barrett

Business editor Leah Barrett searches through her files, "Who's been requisitioning pizza on the Explorer budget again?" Leah was voted editor with the most paper cuts and office phone calls.

These "invisible editors" contributed as many hours and sleepless nights as the others, but just never ran into the photographer. Anne Marie Krause our Greek editor created the Explorer office annex in the Student Life Office. Our (what's a 25¢ word for "lots," Jenn?) thanks go to Copy Editor Jenn Russo for keeping our grammar in line. Bill Keenan who was responsible for art in the yearbook deserves kudos (or M&Ms) as well.

Michele Zelinsky

Michele Zelinsky, Commander-in-chief of Explorer Affairs also helped with photography assignments (when she remembered to remove the lens cap). Michele kept the office organized with her unique system of "editorial bins," and kept our spirits up with her cheerful encouragement. Hey Michele, who finally won the Name-That-Mouse contest? (How about "Fred"?)

Student Life

Kathy Hohenleitner

Mary Ann Buschka

"Mar, we have to re-schedule SGA's picture for the FOURTH time!" says student life co-editor Kathy Hohenleitner to co-editor Mary Ann Buschka. Kathy and Mary Ann kept the phone lines busy calling club presidents while counting their blessings. At least no safes have fallen on either one of them yet!

Sports

Jim McDonald

Sports editor and master photographer Jim McDonald is still trying to find the field hockey team. Jim's enthusiasm and dedication was unmatched and he thought of a good name for the mouse.

Seniors

Debbie Rabberman

Student teacher Miss Debbie only had time to be photographed at 7AM on the way to school. She kept up the spirits of the staff with her dead raccoon imitations and even took yearbook work home for Christmas.

1950-1991: ROTC Makes La Salle History

A Field Artillery ROTC unit was first established at La Salle in September of 1950. For the first two years of its existence, participation in ROTC was on a voluntary basis. In September of 1951, the ROTC Basic Course became a requirement for all physically fit freshmen and sophomores who had not had prior military service. La Salle had an all male student body at that time. In 1965, the requirement for attending the second year ROTC training was removed, and in 1969, the requirement for attending the first year of ROTC was dropped. From 1969 until closing in 1991, all participation was voluntary.

La Salle's ROTC program offered courses in Political Geography, Organizational Leadership, as well as Military Management, Geography, and History. To earn a commission, the cadets had to complete both Basic and Advanced ROTC courses. Additionally the cadets had to successfully complete ROTC Advanced Camp. This grueling six weeks of training and observation at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. There the students from La Salle and more than 100 other colleges and universities underwent a physical and emotional experience that tested their ability to remain calm and make decisions under extreme pressure. Graduates can attest, it was not your typical way to spend the summer since only the strong survived.

Aside from the classroom training, cadets attended field training exercises at Gunpowder Falls, Maryland; Fort Dix, New Jersey; and Indiantown Gap, Pennsylvania. They also attended Airbourne training at Fort Benning, Georgia to earn the right to wear the proud wings of an Army paratrooper. For those who did not want to jump from a plane, there was the Air Assault course at Fort Campbell, Kentucky. There cadets could earn Air Assault wings for mastering the fundamentals of air- mobile operations. For those who do not like flying at all there was the Northern Warfare Training Center in Alaska. That three week course taught cadets how to survive the cold and become proficient at winter combat. In addition to this there had been the opportunity to attend Jungle Warfare Training, Russian Language School and the Master Physical Fitness Course.

The 41 year partnership between La Salle and Army ROTC was built upon a warm and mutually supporting relationship. The strength of this bond is evidenced by the nearly total absence of campus protest, even at the height of the Vietnam era. Nearly 1,000 officers were commissioned here during the life of the program.

Colors: Old Gold and Royal Purple
Motto: A Chain is only as Strong as Its Weakest Link
Founded: April 20, 1963

Delta Sig has been a part of the Greek community at La Salle since 1963. They are a professional fraternity organized to foster the study of business in universities, to encourage scholarship, social activity, and the association of students for their mutual advancement by research and practice. They promote a clear affiliation between the commercial world and the students of commerce. They also further a higher standard of commercial ethics and culture and the civic and commercial welfare of the community.

Nickname: FIJI
Colors: Royal Purple and White
Motto: Friendship, the Sweetest Influence
Charity: Reyes Syndrome
Founded: 1848 Nationally

Founded upon the external values of Friendship, Knowledge, Service, Morality and Excellence, the Upsilon Lambda chapter at La Salle University continues to exemplify these qualities. While chartered on campus only six short years ago, the chapter has gained a reputation for its unity and excellence in all activities. In fact, FIJI currently holds the highest group GPA on campus. FIJI is also known for the incredible diversity among its brothers, ranging from the dean's list scholars to talented athletes to campus leaders.

When a young man pledges FIJI, he does not lose his individuality but instead adds it to the colorful mixture that is brotherhood.

Pi Kappa Phi

Nickname: Pi Kap
Colors: White, Gold, and Royal Blue
Motto: Nothing Shall Ever Tear Us Asunder
Charity: People Understanding the Severely Handicapped
Founded: 1904 Nationally

Pi Kappa Phi defines brotherhood through their actions as a chapter and as individual brothers. They are united by their common interest — the fraternity. Their motto proclaims "nothing shall ever tear us asunder" and they live by it, staying together, acting as one. Of course they enjoy the social scene like any other fraternity but that is only part of being a brother. Pi Kappa Phi is a success because they realize that Greek life involves service and commitment.

Pi Kap was introduced to La Salle in 1982, and they have grown into the largest fraternity on campus. They have established themselves as a strong Pi Kappa Phi chapter by raising thousands of dollars for their national project — P.U.S.H.

A famous Buddhist saying asks "What is the sound of one hand clapping?" The logic inherent in this phrase is simple. The essential nature of unity is stressed by this question, as well as by the entire Buddhist school of thought. And, like the Buddhists, Sigma Beta Kappa is concerned with unity, the cornerstone of life itself. Without unity with one's environment, La Salle University, or with one's cohabitants, the assemblage of students who make up the University body, there can be no happiness, no satiation . . . Tao, as the Buddhists say. Sigma Beta Kappa's goal is simply to seek out the Tao, to be there for one another and for others who may need a helping hand, a comforting word, a spot for lunch.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

Nickname: Sig Ep
Colors: Purple and Red
Motto: Virtue, Diligence, and Brotherly Love — The Balanced Man
Founded: 1901 Nationally

Sigma Phi Epsilon was founded nationally in 1901. Since that time, Sig Ep has grown faster than any other fraternity. This growth is exemplified in the chapter here at La Salle University. Founded here only a short time ago, Sigma Phi Epsilon has become a driving force within the campus. They have also begun a strong tradition of campus and community service, and a belief that the good fraternity is a diverse fraternity, accepting men of any race, creed, or nationality.

Men who pledge Sig Ep deserve the very best, so they were naturally one of the first to realize the importance of positive developmental programs, devoid of hazing and immature foolishness. To be a part of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity is to make the very most of one's college education.

Each semester TKE is in charge of running the Red Cross blood drive at La Salle. TKE has also been involved with anti-drug programs in the local neighborhood, as well as the Respiratory Distress Syndrome Foundation. Socially, TKE sponsors campus wide parties and has various other social functions with sororities on campus. TKE also has very competitive athletic teams that participate in every intramural sport at La Salle. Most important of all TKE is a great place to make friends.

Alpha Theta Alpha

Nickname: ATA
Colors: Kelly Green and White
Motto: Sisters Growing Together
Founded: July 1978

ATA is a social/service organization which was established at La Salle in the Spring of 1978 to grow together in sisterhood and friendship while providing the campus with social and service activities. ATA is the sole chapter of the sorority which accounts for their uniqueness and underlying pride. Their members come from a variety of backgrounds, interests, and majors which only enhances the unity among this diverse group of young women. They pride themselves on loyalty, dedication, and concern for the La Salle community. Their colors, kelly green and white, have become a trademark for the sorority's strength and bond. Their service projects include assisting on campus as well as in the Philadelphia area. The sisters of ATA are devoted to enhancing the college experience through ambition for themselves and their sorority.

Founded: 1874 Nationally

Gamma Phi Beta is proud to be the first international sorority on La Salle's campus, founded here in 1983. The object of this organization is to promote the highest form of womanhood through education, social life, and service.

Sisterhood in Gamma Phi Beta is an experience that expands your horizons. You meet new people different from yourself, and participate in social activities with other organizations both on and off campus. Sisterhood is a lifetime experience that does not end upon graduation. Whatever path you follow after college, you will be sure to find a Gamma Phi Beta sister close by to share it with you.

Charities: Sunshine Foundation and March of Dimes
Founded: 1974

In 1974, Gamma Sigma Sigma was granted a charter at La Salle College — making it the oldest sorority at La Salle. They are based on the ideal of service — not only here on campus, but also in the community and the nation. Their purpose is to assemble college and university women in the spirit of service to humanity. This serves to develop friendship among women of all nationalities and creeds through the medium of working side by side toward the fulfillment of these goals. Although service is their bonding goal, they also offer numerous social activities. Gamma Sigma Sigma is the social/service blend that produces a lifetime of friendship and accomplishment.

Phi Gamma Nu is a professional business fraternity. Nationally, Phi Gamma Nu is co-ed, however, La Salle's chapter is all women. All sisters are business majors or business-related majors in fields such as computer science, economics, and political science. Their business related activities include a speaker program and a mentor program. They also hold social events such as hayrides, semi-formals, participation in Greek Week events and all of the other fun associated with being Greek.

As they approach their fifteenth year at La Salle, they have a lot of good times ahead, celebrating friends, sisterhood, and Greek life. Get to know them, they prove that you can mix business with pleasure.

Fraternities and sororities were a part of college campuses as early as the 18th Century. They began as clubs but took on the form of service and professional organizations. La Salle offers many Fraternal and Hellenic organizations to students. Becoming a brother or a sister of a greek organization enhances the college experience. Pick an organization that shares your interests; learn about others as you learn about yourself. Work, friendship and contributing to your school is what greek life is all about. The "L-Train"

It is our feeling that we would be doing our class of 1991 an injustice if we did not take time here to reflect on the career of a certain alumnus of the class of '90. Lionel Simmons after all, has not merely been a major figure on the La Salle sports scene, but his career has been an event for three of our four years here at La Salle. His achievements on the court are unparalleled in La Salle basketball history and virtually unequaled in the larger, nation-wide world of college hoops. Yet, what is perhaps the most surprising thing about this record-making career, is the relatively quiet and unassuming way in which he made his mark in college basketball history.

Never the spectacularly dominating in-your-face type player — such as a Michael Jordan, who dazzles fans and opponents as he scores 40 or 50 points in a game — Lionel Simmons played within the bounds of teamwork and his own few limitations. For this reason, if one were to see him play for the first time on an average night, one might very well wonder what the big deal is all about. While his team-oriented game might seem less than spectacular, his presence was always felt, wearing away at the opposition as the points added up. His 3,217 points make him one of only five men to have ever reached the 3,000 point mark, and he surpassed this milestone while pulling down 1,429 rebounds. With such astounding numbers and the massive media attention they attracted, one might expect a certain amount of humility to have escaped the L-Train's character. Yet in this age in which arrogance in athletes is the rule, Lionel Simmons is an exception, revealing as he did, an attitude of genuine humility when conducting his many interviews, in which he frequently spoke of achievements in terms of team goals.

Coming, along with Bob Johnson, to our university from South Philadelphia High in 1986, Lionel Simmons led the Explorers to a record of 100-31 during his four years here, the last of which will live in the collective memory of the La Salle community for a very long time. The Explorers ended that season with a record of 30-2, with 22 of the victories being won in succession. The Big 5 Title came to La Salle for the first time since 1975, and the team won the MAAC Tournament for the third straight year, despite being shaken by the crushing news of Hank Gathers' death, which occurred during a game he was playing in California as the Explorers were finishing off Siena in the semifinal. The news was especially hurtful because Gathers was a friend not only of Lionel Simmons, but also of Bob Johnson, Randy Woods, and Doug Overton. Yet the team won the MAAC despite this tragedy, electing not to accept the generous and sensitive gesture by opposing Fordham coach Nick Macarchuk, who offered to forfeit the title game to La Salle, enabling the Explorers to qualify for entry into the NCAA Tournament without having to play the MAAC title game so close on the heels of the tragedy. In that tournament, Lionel and the Explorers realized a long elusive goal: winning a game in the NCAA Tournament. This they did against Southern Mississippi (whose team prevented the Explorers from taking the National Invitational in Lionel's first season) before being eliminated by Clemson.

Lionel's great accomplishments are all the more special because of the way in which he handled himself amid all of the attention. A perfect example of this occurred on the night that the L-Train scored his 3,000th point at the Convention Hall Civic Center. After scoring "The Basket" at the foul line the building erupted, as streamers poured onto the court. The game was stopped, as, after the mayhem, a lengthy awards ceremony took place. The moment served the purpose of allowing the student body an opportunity to express its admiration and gratitude, not merely for Lionel's accomplishment on the court, but also for the poise and quiet dignity with which he gracefully and humbly stood in the spotlight of local and national attention. A further indication of how appreciated he is by the La Salle community, is the large turnout of La Salle students and well-wishers at the Spectrum for an early season Sixers-Kings game which featured the L-Train's return, this time as a member of the Sacramento Kings. In this age of cockiness and arrogance within the sports world, Lionel Simmons has demonstrated the meaning of class, which not only is a credit to himself, but has reflected positively upon the university as well.

SIMMONS

Men's Basketball

New Team, Same Story . . . The Winning Continues

Coming off one of the greatest seasons ever posted by an Explorer basketball team, one which brought to a close the Lionel Simmons era at La Salle, the team, as one might expect, appears radically different from the one we have become accustomed to seeing these last three years. And yet some things have not changed at all. Besides the loss of Simmons, only Bob Johnson was lost to graduation after last season, so the personnel is largely the same as before, and something else is largely the same as last year also: winning.

Of course there is a difference in the way in which the games are being won. The team cannot help but have a different style of play now that opponents no longer have to double-team Lionel Simmons for an entire game. While the adjustment has not always been a smooth one — particularly in the beginning of the season — the players have come together and steadily gained confidence in one another, looking less for someone else to carry the load. In fact, in following the team this year, one cannot help but be struck by a curious thought: perhaps the presence of such a great talent as Lionel Simmons had the negative effect of stunting the growth of the individual players. Certainly, some players seem to have benefited from his absence.

"While the adjustment has not always been a smooth one . . . the players have come together and steadily gained confidence in each other."

The play of many team members, such as Jack Hurd, Mike Lieverst, Brian Holland and Randy Woods, has matured noticeably this season, as they have shaken off the hesitation that comes from indecision and shouldered responsibility with confidence. Doug Overton in particular, has shined this season, exhibiting strong leadership skills in addition to explosive scoring ability, as he has directed the offense with the assurance of one who believes in himself and in his teammates.

The end result of this metamorphosis is a winning basketball team. Already the Explorers have posted big victories — victories in which much help was also provided by seniors Broderick President and Mike Stock — against Big 5 rivals Penn and Villanova. Having established the ability to succeed in the post-Lionel Simmons era, La Salle can look forward to many winning seasons to come from Explorer basketball.

DOUG OVERTON

Doug Overton has had a remarkable career with the Explorers, and we would be doing an injustice if we did not take a moment here to single out some of his achievements. Though his final season still has at least seven games remaining as we go to press, he has:

— Twice been selected to the MAAC regular season and Tournament first-team.
— Set a La Salle record for career assists with over 600.
— Earned a share, with Randy Woods, of the NCAA two-man record for points scored in a game, contributing 45 of the now-record 91 points on New Year's Eve.
— Rocketed past the 1,000 point mark, scoring over 1,600 points.

Congratulations, Doug, and good luck in the future! We would also like to offer our congratulations to Jack Hurd, who scored his 1,000th point on February 9th, against Canisius.

Women's Basketball

Team Reaches Milestone in '91

While the 1990-91 season has been one of improvement for the women's basketball team, the squad has had to overcome a number of disappointments and setbacks as it has struggled to push its record above the .500 mark. The otherwise promising season has been marred by the necessity of junior Jennifer McGowan sitting out the remainder of the season due to medical problems, and by the Explorers' failure to win, for the first time in four years, their own La Salle Invitational, placing third in the tournament.

Yet, while there have been disappointments, the team has won more often than it has lost, and there have also been some pretty special moments that have come along the way. The team's captain, senior guard Denise Kayajian, who has made her last season one of her best, scored 20 points in a victory over Loyola-Maryland, for a career high. With a February victory over Siena, the team earned its 300th win as Head Coach Jon Miller chalked-up his 100th victory with the Explorers. Senior forward Mary Greybush has again had an outstanding season, scoring a career-high 32 points in a win over North Texas State. The big news this season has, of course, been the milestone that Mary Greybush reached, scoring her 1,000th point in an important victory over Big 5 rival, Temple. Her achievement makes her only the ninth player in La Salle history to score 1,000 points.

"While there have been disappointments . . . some pretty special moments have come along the way."

Despite losing Kayajian and Greybush to graduation, the Explorers, with a strong returning lineup, can look forward to continued improvement. That returning lineup will feature Jennifer McGowan, Laura Reigstad, and Mimi Harris, all of whom have had great seasons. Also returning will be sophomore Jennifer Cole, who already holds the La Salle record for three point shots attempted, with seven, equalled that mark again this season, sinking five of them as she posted a career-high 29 points in a big victory over Iona. With this kind of talent on the team La Salle's women's basketball should continue to work back to its winning tradition.

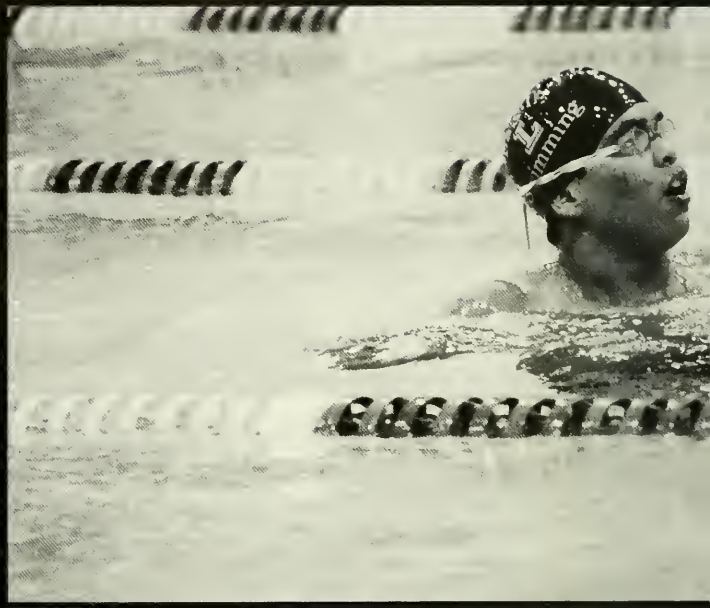
Swimming & Diving

Men's Team



The banners inside Hayman Hall's Kirk Pool tell the story: success has been a constant in Explorer swimming. In just the last fourteen years the men's swimming team has won an astounding 10 conference titles, with six of them coming in the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference, and the remaining four in the East Coast Conference. This does not include the repeatedly high finishes La Salle swimmers have achieved at the Eastern Seaboard Championships and the National Catholics.

Having already set a total of 32 individual and 13 relay La Salle University records under his guidance, the Explorers enter their ninth season under Head Coach and Aquatic Director John Lyons, optimistic of continued excellence. Indeed, the season has been marked by success as the team has defeated Villanova, Boston University, etc. The team has been led by a very talented corps of seniors. Eric Buhain, who competed for Team Philippines in the 1988 Summer Olympiad, holds the school record in both the 100 and 200 breaststroke, and has a share in the school's 200 and 400 medley relay and in the 200 freestyle relay records. Mike Travers holds the La Salle record in the 100 backstroke and a share in the school's 800 freestyle relay record. William Wiebking has been an Eastern finalist three times and registered first place finishes in the 200, 500 and 1000 freestyle.

With such talented swimmers as juniors Clifton Johnson and David Wilkins returning to the squad for the 1991-92 season, the Explorers can expect to continue to do well in the future.

Women's Team

Led by senior co-captains Liz Jiacoppo and Christine O'Connor, the Explorers are looking for the same kind of success that has brought the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference title to La Salle in 1984 and 1986. Far from being isolated instances, the Explorers finished second in the MAAC Championships on five other occasions and last year finished fourth in the East Coast Championships, while finishing sixth at the National Catholics. There have also been a number of new school records established since Head Coach and Aquatic Director John Lyons took over in 1982; 24 individual and 14 relay records, to be exact.

The Explorers have good reason to believe that the team will continue to improve in the future. While Christine O'Connor has earned a place in the La Salle record books with a share of the 200 freestyle relay record and Liz Jiacoppo has been a National qualifier, the team is blessed with talented juniors. Cindy Meehan not only holds the individual school records in the 100 and 200 butterfly events and in the 400 IM, but she also shares in La Salle's 400 and 800 freestyle relay as well as the 800 freestyle relay at the 1990 MAAC Championships. Freshmen Karen Hafner and Holly Barnette, both of whom shined against Villanova this season, should keep the Explorers winning in the future.

Diving

In Women's Diving, the La Salle team dominated the MAAC tournament, placing 1st, 3rd and 4th in the three meter and 2nd, 3rd and 4th in the one meter event. Freshman Sheryl Coppola was named diver of the meet. In the Men's Diving events, La Salle was well represented by juniors: Craig Brewster, Clifton Johnson, and Kevin Stahlman.

Field Hockey

Team rebuilds, has fun

While the majority of La Salle students were still vacationing, the devoted field hockey team returned to school early for camp — ten long, enduring days of hockey. New coach, Tracey Griesbaum, was just recently hired. Tracey is a graduate of Westchester University and currently plays for the United States Field Hockey Team. She is an organized, energetic and patient coach. This past season has been a learning and rebuilding experience. Our record, however, does not reflect the vast improvement that we have made. Unfortunately, a few of our players were injured (some more than once), but the team spirit prevailed.

Field Hockey is a sport of talent and skill which takes a special athlete to master the game. No four players have a better understanding of the game than our four seniors. Captains Tracy Edwards and Melissa Schubert kept the team together by encouraging the team to always play its best. Tracy "Track" Edwards with her lightning speed and talented stickwork created many break aways that left the opposing defense in amazement. Melissa "Schubby" Schubert, an Academic All American and an enthusiastic defensive player, had a knack for stopping the opponents in their tracks. Then there's Katie Breslin at sweeper, the backbone of the defense. Being the last in line before the goalie, Katie would aggressively snag the ball and clear it to the eager defense. Mary Ann Gilmore, who returned after a two-year absence, functioned as backup goalie. These seniors contributed greatly to the spirit of the team and deserve the best of luck in the future.

Juniors also provided invaluable skills to the Field Hockey team: Amy Horsey with her incredible speed, Gina Russo with her goal- scoring ability, Jen Miller and Jeannie Sgro with their solid defensive skills. Miller and Russo were also named to the Academic All American Team, along with Schubert.

Our leading scorer, Kelli McGahey, was named to the Mid-Atlantic Regional All American Second Team. Her sister Kerri, along with Pamela Russo, supplied the team with both offense and defense. Other sophomore players included: Colleen Fleming, Sharon Gerhardt, Jen King, Jenny Moulis, and Julie Zimmerman. Goalie Michelle Richmond, who had a good year, recorded two shutouts and a save percentage of 85%. No team would be complete without the freshmen: Dawn Auferio, Nicole Manente and Rachel Raffile.

With eight returning starters the team is anxiously looking forward to producing a winning season next year!!!

Men's Soccer

Explorers Finish 2nd in MAAC

The men's soccer team can be very proud of the season they had in 1990, posting an 11-10- 1 record — 6-2 in the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference — while placing second in the MAAC playoffs, where, after defeating Manhattan, the team lost to Loyola in the final. Because it was a young and inexperienced squad that took the field in 1990, with as many as 16 freshman on the roster, the Explorers needed to lean heavily on the leadership of seniors Bob Bradby (midfielder), Joe Joyce (goal keeper), Sean Conroy (goal keeper/forward), and Mike Viola (forward). They shouldered the responsibility well, as the Explorers had a great season, the success of which exceeded all expectations. The offense, while always steady, was explosive at times, and was led, along with Bradby and Conroy, by junior midfielder Georg Montag who led the team in goals scored with 14, and Jeff Van Tiem, who registered 11 goals. The defense remained solid in front of sophomore goal keeper Rich Scholer, being led by junior defenseman Bill Pancoast and sophomore defenseman Mike Lee. Four Explorers, Bradby, Van Tiem, Montag, and Herb Lottier, were honored for their performance in the MAAC Championships by being named to the All-Tournament team. La Salle soccer fans can be optimistic of future success from the Explorers, with juniors Bob McCarthy (midfielder), John Williams (forward), and Herb Lottier (forward) returning to the team with Pancoast and Montag in the Fall of 1991.

Women's Soccer

Rebuilding Year

If there is any one thing that Head Coach Betty Ann Kempf and assistant Craig Dorman can be pleased with, it is the effort they got from their 1990 squad. In 1990, the Explorers doubled the previous season's total of victories, and three of their eleven losses came in overtime. Led by senior captains Meg Cardie (midfielder), Jeanne Gaughan (defense), and Jean Needham (goal keeper), the Explorers worked with the kind of intensity that can only come from a deep seeded hunger to win, and in so doing achieve a degree of perfection. While the defense was led by senior defender Bridget McClernon and the goal-keeping of sophomore Sue Guba, the offense was ignited by sophomore Linda Madeja, who led the team with eight goals, and senior Meg Cardie, who led the Explorers with six assists. Though unsatisfied with the overall results of this season, having fallen short of the preseason goal of a .500 season, Kempf and La Salle soccer fans can look forward to continued improvement in the future. Returning to the team along with Guba and Madeja, will be such talented players as sophomores Jeannine Cridge (midfielder), Laura Cesaro (midfielder), and Dawn Jaffee (forward). Also returning will be the entire defense — excepting graduating senior Jeanne Gaughan — which was the strength of the squad.

Baseball

A SEASON OF IN'S & OUT'S

The La Salle Explorers' baseball team had a season of in's and out's in 1990. Led by head coach Bob Vivian with the assistance of coach Bob Weidinger, the Explorers ended their season with an overall record of 11-36-0, a record of 5-12-0 in the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference (MAAC) and a 2-7-0 record in the Florida Atlantic Tournament. However, the Explorers never disappointed the over 1,000 fans who came to cheer them on during the season. The team played tough and gritty and never lost their "give-it-all-you-got" attitude.

Senior outfielders Rich DeVincent and Tom Forte, pitcher and second baseman Gary Roberts, and pitchers Bill O'Neill and Bill Sullivan and their teammates played hard against all opposing teams. The Explorers rallied to win in games against Boston University, Manhattan and Iona. The team defeated St. Joseph's in a 18-6 game guided to victory by the strong arm of pitcher Bill Sullivan in a complete game for Sullivan. Other outstanding pitchers on the team included senior Gary Roberts and junior Jeff LaPorta. LaPorta maintained a 5.13 ERA while pitching 79 innings for the Explorers this season, with a 5-6 record for the season. Overall, the Explorers' pitching ERA stands at 7.37 for the 1990 season. Four complete games were pitched by Jeff LaPorta and three by senior Bill O'Neill, with three saves by Mike O'Connor and a shutout pitched by senior Gary Roberts. Sophomore catcher Mike Moffa ended the season with a .333 batting average and an on-base percentage of .556 in six at-bats.

Team members batting over .300 in over a hundred at-bats included senior outfielder Rich DeVincent (.315), senior pitcher and second baseman Gary Roberts (.313), Dave Mastropietro (.310), and sophomore shortstop Martin Lewin (.308). The Explorers' overall batting average came in at .270. Team leaders in batting included senior outfielder Rich DeVincent with 30 runs, 53 hits and 38 RBI's in 168 at-bats; sophomore shortstop Martin Lewin with 25 runs, 41 hits and 24 RBI's in 133 at-bats; Dave Mastropietro with 22 runs, 40 hits and 20 RBI's in 129 at-bats; sophomore third baseman and shortstop Doug Lopian with 11 runs, 31 hits and 19 RBI's in 116 at-bats; and senior pitcher and second baseman Gary Roberts with 18 runs, 35 hits and 17 RBI's in 111 at-bats. Dave Mastropietro was the home run leader, hitting ten, with senior outfielder Rich DeVincent hitting nine for the Explorers in the 1990 season.

Despite their disappointing season, the Explorers intend to fight hard in the 1991 season to reclaim their winning edge. It will be a challenge, but with returning talent such as pitchers Bill O'Neill and Bill Sullivan, pitcher and infielder Gary Roberts, and outfielders Tom Forte and Rich DeVincent, success in the upcoming season is sure to be realized.

ANOTHER WINNING SEASON

The La Salle Explorers' softball team ended the 1990 season with an impressive 29-15-1 overall team record. Driven to victory by the strong pitching of senior Kate Carroll, junior Andrea Huck and freshman Vicki Dougherty, the team demonstrated their superior playing skills to all who came before them on the field. Seniors on the team included pitcher Kate Carroll, third baseperson Jean Donegan, left fielder Kathleen Ginley, first baseperson and shortstop Kim McAllister and center fielder Mary McGrath. Sophomore catcher Jennifer Cole maintained a .319 average in 47 at-bats. Team players batting above .300 with more than a hundred at-bats included shortstop Pam Sawyer with .306 in hundred at-bats, sophomore shortstop and third baseperson Sheila Thurston with .309 in 136 at-bats, sophomore right fielder Kelli McGahey with .322 in 121 at-bats and sophomore first baseperson Kerri McGahey with .331 in 145 at-bats. A particularly outstanding player on the team in the 1990 season was senior center fielder Mary McGrath. McGrath maintained a .348 average in her 135 at-bats, scoring 34 runs, 47 hits and 37 RBI's. She also achieved the team's highest on-base percentage of .513, in addition to hitting seven of the team's thirteen home runs during the season.

The team will strive to retain their winning record this season behind returning seniors Kate Carroll, and infielders Lorraine Marchiano, Kim McAllister and Jean Donegan and outfielders Kathleen Ginley and Mary McGrath.

Volleyball

Great Season Ends Too Soon

It was a beautiful Sunday afternoon on November 4th, as La Salle held its 37th annual Open House. Everywhere campus organizations had erected displays and were putting on exhibitions for potential La Salle class of '95 candidates, as meanwhile, in Hayman Hall, the women's volleyball team was putting on a display of its own at the MAAC Championships. The Explorers beat both Niagara and Loyola MD, and then defeated Canisius in the semifinals to advance to a showdown with St. Peters for the final match. Though the Explorers looked unbeatable at times, taking a two games to one lead in the match, St. Peters' squad proved to be overpowering, winning the match 3-2 as the last rally, begun with senior Mary Lalor serving, fell short. Despite losing the title match, the team's outstanding effort was not without its rewards. Sophomore Dana Shepherd and junior Jennifer Wutzer were named co-MVP's of the MAAC tournament, and junior Jill Carozza was named to the All-MAAC first team. The coaching was rewarded also, with Head Coach Arnie Rosenbaum, along with St. Peter's Head Coach Sheryl Minter, was named co-Coach of the Year.

Tennis

La Salle's women's tennis team, working hard under the tutelage of Head Coach Joe Simmon, put forth a valiant effort this season. As the team consists of underclassmen — not a senior among them this year — we expect that their hard work and dedication will come to fruition in future seasons. Certainly, La Salle tennis fans will have much to look forward to, as the Explorers look forward to reaping the rewards of their labors, and returning to the winning tradition which has characterized Explorer tennis in the past. We certainly wish them all the best.

— Beth McSherry & ed.

Men's tennis Head Coach Jeff Marmon is looking forward to repeating the success that the Explorers enjoyed last year, finishing their season with a 9-2 record. Senior team captains Darryl Mack and Scott Piro will attempt to rally the Explorers to another quick start in the Spring of 1991, and we look forward to another winning season. The team this year includes: Tony Obfenda, Jeff Grasso, Robert Boas, Bill Browne, Ed Holmes, Keith Kim, and Rob Totalo.

It takes a special type of person to row. Those lacking strength, determination, commitment and lots of heart need not apply.

The crew team practiced about eighteen hours weekly this season in preparation for a number of regattas, most of which took place on the Schuykil River. They sacrificed their social lives and free time and focused instead on academics and athletics.

They rose at dawn daily to practice before classes. They returned to practice after classes and before tackling their schoolwork. Their Saturdays, and sometimes Sundays, were spent at races, where their rowing ability was tested against other crews. And yet, as usual, they managed to have a great time all season.

The La Salle crew organization is divided into four teams: Men's and Women's Varsity, Novice Men and Novice Women.

The Varsity Men's team is coached by Pete Sigmund, and Mark Valenti coaches the Varsity Women. The Men's and Women's Novice teams are coached respectively by Frank Cataldi, and Julie Yentz and Tricia Breslin. All five themselves are former La Salle rowers. The four teams are separate entities that form one united organization.

Featuring seniors Liz McGirr, Dan Hoover, Russ Mellott and John Fitzpatrick, the Crew team did well this Spring and hopes to fare even better at the Dad Vail Regatta, the culmination and highlight of the season.

Track & Wrestling

The Explorers are once again quite literally, off and running, as preparations are underway to post a winning season for La Salle in the 1991 Indoor and Cross-Country Track competitions. The women's indoor track team is led by seniors Melissa Corcoran and Rita Gillespie, who also led the cross country team with the additional help of juniors Sheila Regan, Christine Clark, and Christine Rocklage; while the leadership of the men's team falls upon the shoulders of seniors Bob Ilik, Tom Sauvageau, and David Thompson.

Under the leadership of tri-captains Chris Shalbert, Shannon Watson, and Vinnie Ernst, La Salle's wrestling team has once again had another solid season. Individual performances of the Explorers speak well of Head Coach Eddie Lawless and special recognition is given to Shalbert and Ernst, both of whom placed in this year's National Catholics Championships. We would especially like to congratulate graduating seniors, Troy Mayo, Shannon Watson, Tom Weeler, and Rob Wright, for fine careers with the Explorers. Best of luck to you all.

— Beth McSherry & ed.

CHEERLEADERS

What can one say about the La Salle University cheerleaders? Perhaps more than any other aspect of Explorer basketball, the cheerleaders are a constant. The team has moved from the cozy Palestra to the greener pastures of the Convention Hall Civic Center, and Lionel Simmons, the "L-Train," has come and gone (for the greener pastures of the NBA), yet one can always count on the cheerleading. The leading of cheers is what gives college basketball its character. As much as the band — and La Salle is blessed with a great one — the cheerleaders enhance the atmosphere of a basketball game in a way that can never quite be duplicated on the professional level.

Nor is it easy work. The cheerleaders, as well as the dance team, practice hard; in the case of the cheerleaders, Coach Carl Smith has them practicing three hours at a time, three times a week. Their work starts with a camp in the summer, has them perform at Open House, and often takes them on the road with the team — this year, all the way to Japan. Throughout, the cheerleading squad, under captains Andrea Cappachione and Leo Hegarty, maintains an undying enthusiasm, as they form difficult pyramids with seeming ease, and lead the cheers to make a mere game an event.

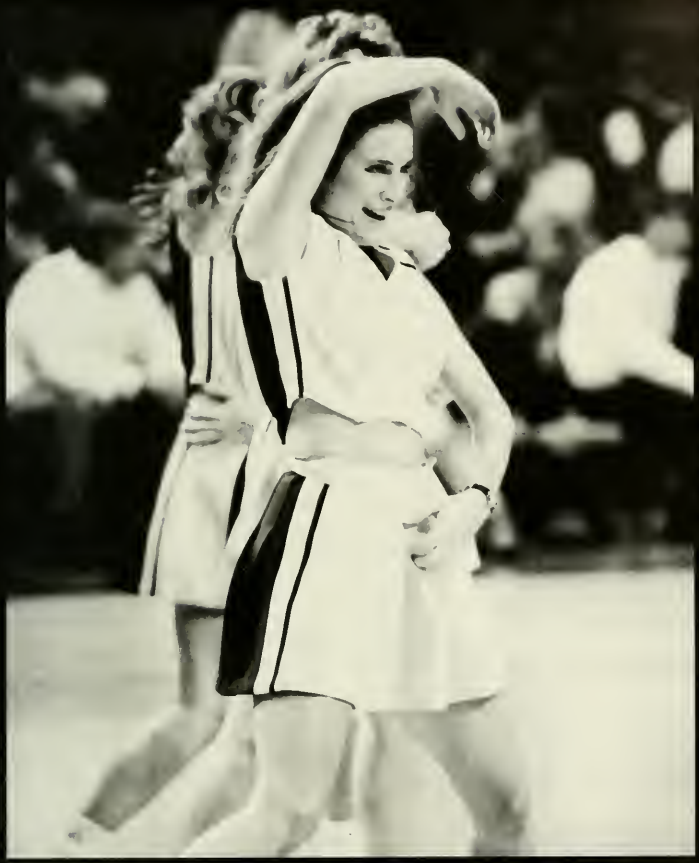
Dance Team



Who are these people? They look like cheerleaders. They dress like cheerleaders. But they are not cheerleaders! They are La Salle's Dance Team. So what does it take to be a dance team member? Dedication. Besides the everyday/every game routine, some of the senior members found themselves traveling half way around the world to strut their stuff, in Japan. In order to raise money so that they too may travel with the basketball team, the dancers conducted a dance clinic which involved high schools from all over the Philadelphia area coming to learn routines and techniques.

Headed by coach Jennifer Nelson, a former dance team member herself, the team practices three to four times a week, for two hours, constantly drilling dances and moves to make sure everything looks clean and neat. Although they don't travel everywhere with the basketball team, they perform at half time and time outs at every home game. The team also performs every year at Open House and offers tours of Hayman Hall throughout the day. Tryouts are held every semester in September and again in April. Could the Dance Team be for you?

— Traci Wilheilm

Year in Review

German Reunification — World leaders welcomed a united Germany into the international community on October 3 (1990), but concerns about the balance of power tempered some European enthusiasm. "A new era is beginning for Germany, for Europe and indeed, we hope, for the world," Secretary of State James A. Baker III declared in New York. In a message to governments worldwide, Chancellor Helmut Kohl pledged that Germany would never again pose the territorial claims that marked Germany from its initial unification in 1871 to its defeat and division in World War II. "In the future, only peace will emanate from German soil," Kohl said. His message came after Germany held a night-long nationwide celebration with fireworks and music. The nation united at the stroke of midnight when a giant German flag was raised in front of the battle-scarred Reichstag building in Berlin. Kohl and other leaders joined in singing the national anthem. The unification came 11 months after the Berlin Wall fell in a peaceful revolt that cast aside Communist East German overlords.

Earth Day — On April 22, 1990 an estimated 200 million people all over the planet celebrated the 20th anniversary of Earth Day as activists pleaded for the rise of a new "conservative generation" to care for the fragile environment. In Washington, Earth Day founder Gaylord Nelson urged more than 100,000 people massed at the foot of the Capitol to work to motivate politicians and corporate leaders to environmental action. Earth Day was celebrated in more than 3,600 U.S. communities and in 140 other nations, according to organizers.

Homeless Count — A legion of clipboard- toting counters sought out shelters, subways and steam grates during March of 1990 in the broadest attempt ever to find out the extent of homelessness since it became a national disgrace in the 1980's. Some homeless didn't mind the intrusion. "It shows that they're starting to recognize us as humans and not the scum of the earth," said one young man of the streets. Another homeless man said, "What are they going to use the numbers for anyway? To tell us there ain't no homeless problem? I'm a living example that there is a problem. We need jobs, not surveys." The U.S. Census Bureau is spending $2.7 million to tally homeless Americans, but critics fear an undercount will allow the government to justify cuts in services. The homeless, now estimated to number 250,000 to 3 million, were asked their name, age, sex, race and marital status.

Flag Protection Act — The U.S. Senate rejected a constitutional amendment against flag burning on June 26 with critics arguing that it was already dead and being debated largely as ammunition for use against them at election time. The Senate voted 58-42 in favor, leaving it nine short of the required two thirds majority needed to approve amendments. President Bush called for approval of the measure, but the House rejected it with Democratic leaders saying that it amounted to placing limits on freedom of speech.

Southern Floods — The Southern U.S. spent much of the Spring wringing itself out after weeks of flooding turned entire towns into muddy lakes where buildings poked up like knotty tree stumps, and the toll of shattered lives was tremendous. While parts of the Mid-West dealt with heavy rainfall and floods, those states suffering the most damage were Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, and Mississippi. In Texas alone, agricultural damage was estimated at $700 million and at least $60 million to residences.

David Souter Joins Supreme Court — David H. Souter, a mild-mannered, well-read and previously little-known judge from New Hampshire, became history's 105th Supreme Court justice in October (1990) after pledging to "do equal right to the poor and to the rich." In a brief ceremony in the crowded courtroom, Souter, 51, was administered the judicial oath of office by Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist and almost immediately went to work hearing high court arguments with his eight new colleagues. Souter joins the court at a pivotal time in its history.

Earthquake in the Philippines — A major earthquake jolted Manila and surrounding Luzon Island on July 16, killing at least 193 people and leaving hundreds more trapped in collapsed buildings. Most of the victims in Baguio, about 50, were at the Hyatt Hotel. The entire front section of the Hyatt, the city's plushest hotel, collapsed. It appeared that floors containing guest rooms had crashed down onto the lobby, which includes the main restaurant, bar and shops. Aftershocks continued the following day, forcing many residents to sleep on the streets after the quake, which measured 7.7 on the Richter scale. A 7.8 quake struck the Philippines in 1976, killing 8,000 people. Most died in a tidal wave that struck Mindaneo.

Nolan Ryan wins 300 — Defeating the Milwaukee Brewers on July 31, Texas Rangers' pitcher Nolan Ryan won his 300th game. "I feel more relieved than anything else after all the buildup," Ryan said after joining the 300 Club. A crowd of 51,533 showed up to cheer Ryan on at Country Stadium. Ryan has become one of ten major league pitchers to win 300 games.

Deutschland ist Weltmeister — German fans chanted, sang and screamed their pleasure on July 8, 1990 when West Germany dethroned Argentina and won the World Cup. Many Germans headed into central Rome to celebrate the victory that came after the frustration of losses in the previous two World Cup finals.

Reds win World Series — The Cincinnati Reds, given no chance to beat the Oakland Athletics, needed only four quick games to win the World Series in one of the biggest upsets in baseball history. The Reds completed their improbable sweep on October 20 (1990) in spite of losing two star players, Eric Davis and Billy Hatcher, to injuries. Cincinnati relied on Jose Rijo and rallied for two runs in the eighth inning to win 2-1, and that was it. The Athletics' third straight trip to the World Series ended with yet another disappointment. In 1988, they lost to Los Angeles, last year's championship was overshadowed by an earthquake and this season, the Reds.

Douglas is World Heavyweight Champ — James "Buster" Douglas wore a world heavyweight championship belt after his stunning knockout of Mike Tyson in Tokyo earlier this year. At 1:23 of the 10th round, Douglas knocked Tyson out with a five-punch combination. The title was in limbo during three days of bickering over the long count. Two of boxing's governing bodies undertook an investigation of whether Douglas, the underdog, was knocked out first. The final decision was in his favor. "He pulled the greatest upset in history," said Douglas' father. "Just call it a victory for the small man," Tyson said.

Bush and Gorbachev Summit Agreements — Celebrating the fruits of their summit diplomacy, President Bush and Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev shook hands and signed a sheaf of agreements, including a conditional trade accord. During the June (1990) summit, the leaders also embraced a preliminary deal to cut long-range nuclear arms. The centerpiece arms agreement, banning chemical arms production, was a foregone conclusion. But last-hour negotiating was necessary to settle differences on a framework for strategic arms cuts and a five-year grain deal. The two leaders also agreed to strive for an elusive agreement on reduction of troops, tanks and other conventional weapons in Europe. From twin lecterns, the two presidents spoke of what they had done and what they hope to do. "I think what is happening now . . . represents an event of momentous importance, not only for our two countries but for the world," said Gorbachev.

Free Elections in Romania — Excited Romanians voted May 20 (1990) in their first free elections in 53 years. Interim President Ion Iliescu won in a landslide victory, but the two opposition candidates alleged numerous instances of election fraud. Iliescu had been heavily favored to win the presidency. His Front, a loose grouping of former communists, workers and technocrats that has dominated government since December's revolution, also led in the parliamentary vote. The main issues of the campaign included moving Romania's centralized socialist system to a free-market economy and dismantling the Communist system.

Chamorro Victory — Violeta Barrios de Chamorro, publisher of Nicaragua's opposition newspaper, led a 14-part coalition to victory over Sandinista rule despite political inexperience. "The Nicaraguan people have shown that they want to live in democracy, in peace, and in freedom," Mrs. Chamorro told more than 1,000 cheering supporters at her election headquarters on February 26, 1990. The general election was monitored by more than 3,000 international observers, including the United Nations, the Organization of American States and a delegation led by former U.S. President Jimmy Carter. They all pronounced the voting free and fair and the count clean.

Nelson Mandela World Tour — Massive crowds turned out for African National Congress leader Nelson Mandela at every stop on his six-week tour of three continents. Mandela visited 14 nations in Europe, North America and Africa, achieving his goals: urging foreign governments to maintain sanctions against South Africa, raising funds for the ANC and explaining the goals of his movement. The ANC says it aims to create a non-racial democracy and to distribute the nation's wealth more equally. Mandela, the ANC's deputy president, has said he favors a mixed economy. Nelson Mandela, one of the world's most celebrated political prisoners, was freed by the South African government in February after 27 years in prison. He was serving a life sentence for allegedly plotting sabotage to overthrow the white government.

U.S. Tanks Reach Saudi Arabia — The U.S. Army's heaviest ground firepower reached Saudi soil in August for deployment behind Arab forces manning the front line in the standoff with Iraq. Dozens of M1-1P tanks and M2 Bradley armored infantry fighting vehicles, and scores more heavy support vehicles, rolled off two huge transport ships at a port in northeastern Saudi Arabia and made their way north into the desert. "There's no doubt in my mind that we'll succeed here if we have to," said Col. Barry Willey. "Bring them (the Iraqis) on," said a U.S. sergeant. "We have the training and technology; they've got the numbers. We'll take them out."

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein — The portrait of Saddam Hussein shows a man with a strange duality: tough, yet fearful; inspiring fear in his own people, yet also basking in a kind of populist veneration from many of the region's Arabs. The portrait is one of a poor orphan who rose to power through opportunism and brutality, whose anti-Western views were shaped in childhood, and who now — commanding the world's fourth largest army — is trying to deliver on his nationalist dreams. Fear and terror surround the 53-year-old Iraqi President, and U.S. intelligence officials and other analysts believe that this climate could be his undoing.

U.S. Troops Leave for Middle East — As of mid-October (1990), more than 200,000 U.S. troops had been deployed to Saudi Arabia, Pentagon sources said. They are preparing to defend the desert kingdom from a possible Iraqi attack. Iraq has about 430,000 men in Kuwait and southern Iraq, according to the Pentagon. Among the latest forces to arrive in Saudi Arabia are elements of the 1st Cavalry Division, which includes a brigade of the 2nd Armored Division, from Fort Hood, TX. The soldiers are being flown on commercial jetliners, meeting up with their roughly 300 Mi-Abrams tanks and other equipment which was shipped from their bases several weeks prior. By February (1991), over 500,000 U.S. troops had been deployed in the Persian Gulf and the battle to liberate Kuwait had begun.

La Salle R.O.T.C. Displays Equipment at Open House — For many La Salle students, with friends or family members in the Persian Gulf, watching the news for updates on the war became compulsive. Loved ones on the home-front hung yellow ribbons on doors and book-bags. For many La Salle alumni, participation in R.O.T.C. came to mean a post in Saudi Arabia. Their commitment now requires a great deal more than they ever imagined it would.

Michele Primavera

To my daughter Michele Primavera

To my dearest Michele,

Well you did it. Graduations! It seems like only yesterday when we attended 8th grade graduation and now 8 years later that little red haired 8th grader is now a college grad. Graduations! Like the changing world, the changing climates, my little 8th grader was changing. Changing from my sweet child to my sweet teenager, forming her own view of life, forming her own opinions and now changing again from my sweet teenager to an adorable young adult, ready to challenge the world on her views, her opinions. Graduations! Like the 8th grader fearful of the unknown high school, my sweet college grad faces the working world. Take heart little girl. You have the best in education, health, relatives. We stand with you, ready to help at any time. Graduations! Yes, you did it. You faced the challenge and won. You could have found 1000 reasons for dropping out, but you didn't. You won. Only winners take the challenge. Graduations! So many wonderful times, so many short days but I cherish every memory. Graduations! Only to the winners.

Love your friend,

Dad

My dearest Michele,

Congratulations on your graduation day. You have my very best wishes for every happiness and success in life today and always. I hope you will continue to make your family as proud of you in the future, as you have in the past. Today, everyone is especially pleased to share the joy of your graduation. Tomorrow however, classes are over and a brand new professional challenge awaits you. God bless you in your new pursuit for the life you always dreamed of having "some day". That "some day" has arrived. So, get started and have lots of fun with it.

Love,

Roswitha

From the Editors' Desk:

Did we ever think we would make it to the final deadline? In September we were wide-eyed and smiling, eager for a "wonderful creative opportunity." By February, the glamour of volunteering many late nights had lost some of its shine. But somebody has to do it, So, why not us? After two semesters of hard labor we had two hundred and sixty-three page book. and, we did have fun.

Michele, where's the...?" "John, have you seen the...?" "Nevermind, it's here somewhere."

"Questing, questing, ever questing."

"Pass the yearbook salsa,"

"Oh, who needs a theme anyway.?"

"Wake up! We've only been here all night. Have a muffin before Bob gets here."

"What do you mean we can't cut color pictures?"

"There has to be a quote about housing in here somewhere."

Famous last words: "Of course , we can. We're the editors."

"Where do old pictures go to die?" "Haven't you seen the third file drawer?"

Ring, ring. "Hi, guys! I just wanted to let you know there's a mouse in here." "Where are you calling from?" "On top of the desk."

"What's a four-letter word for mouse?" "How about Fred?" "Not."

"I don't know. What did we do last year?"

"Support the yearbook. Feed an editor."

"What school did you say it was that pays their yearbook editors?"

"You need a picture of what?"

Thanks go to the powers-that-be for not moving our office to the basement. We were always relieved when we came to the office and found that our stuff was still here.

With all due respect to the Collegian staff...,well, you didn't really want to share an office either, did you? Thanks for saving us a space anyway.

Thanks to Paigeann for taking on the challenge of tracking down La Salle's busy faculty.

Thanks to Kathy for doing your job so cheerfully and never complaining! Thanks to Mary Ann for bringing the mail rain or shine and for decorating the office for Christmas.

Thanks to Anne Marie for taking time out of a busy schedule."

Thanks to Jim McDonald for holding on and doing a great job. We were beginning to think the Sports Section was the Bermuda Triangle of editors. Thanks for proving that a mere superstition.

Thanks to Debbie, our night-time editor. Where are you during the day, anyway?

Thanks to Leah for picking up the ball when it was already rolling.

Thanks to Jenn for reading the stuff we were tired of looking at.

Thanks to Dr.. Millard for having faith in us and for giving us gentle reminders and sage advice.

Thanks especially to Bob for handling our deadlines with more patience and grace than we could ever manage.

Thanks to the sunset for quietly appearing over McCarthy Stadium every evening outside our window. We couldn't have done it without that inspiration.

So long, farewell...who's going to do it next year?
